Islam in the Global Context Speaker Series Presents

Reforming Islam: Change and Continuity in Central Asia

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2012 – 5:30PM
FEDEX GLOBAL EDUCATION CENTER 1005

This talk will introduce theories of Islamic reform and reform movements and offer a case study the Jadid movement of Central Asia at the turn of the 20th century. Candace will discuss the reform efforts and important figures in Uzbekistan that shed light on motives of reformers as well as Muslim culture and society in Central Asia.

(Refreshments will be served)

Candace Mixon is a PhD Student in the Department of Religious Studies at UNC. She earned her M.A. in Islamic Studies from McGill University and her B.A. in Religious Studies from Vanderbilt University.

Sponsored by Persian Studies at Carolina